How to trade the 9am CRT

CRT

1- Determine Draw on liquidity

- DOL is the most important aspect of your analysis and should be your first priority in the trading
- Without knowing DOL you are simply pattern trading.
- I have created a detailed thread on this. Go check it on my profile.

2- Build narrative & key level

There are two types of narratives:

1. Price based narrative = Market maker models,

Power of three, dealing ranges, OHLC and Candle ranges.

2. Time based narrative = Session behavior,

Intraday profiles and Weekly profiles.

Key level

1. OB
2. BB
3. RB
4. FVG'S
5. HIGH'S
6. LOW'S

3-Find CRT

CRT

Trading the 9am candle is very easy and highly probable.
If you just master the 9am CRT, it's enough to become.

For 9:00 am Candle we have three CRT candles

1. 9:00 pm
2. 1:00 am
3. 5:00 am

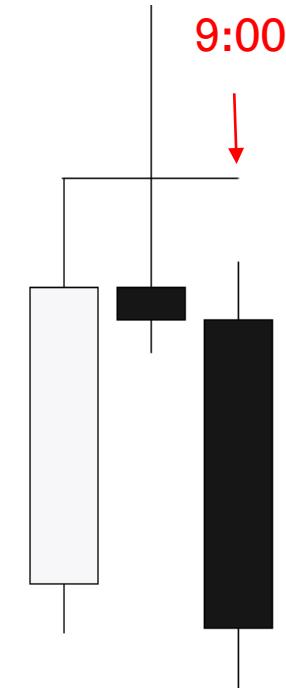

- 9:00 pm = ASIA RANGE

Whenever your bias is very clear, you can also trade the 9am H1 CRT

Protocol for 9:00 AM H1 CRT :

- The bias and DOL must be very clear.
- Identify the key level: OB , FVG , Highs, and Lows.
- The Asia high/low and London high/low must be protected.
- Mark the 8 AM CRH and CRL.
- Wait for confirmation.
- Confirmation = Market purges CRH/CRL, taps into the key level, and forms order block on the M5 timeframe.

IMPORTANT & KEY ASPECT FOR 9 AM CRT

CRT

- 1. DOL Alignment: Ensure that the daily order flow & DOL aligns with your Bias.
- 2. Market Structure: Look for a clear market structure and confirm that the CRT setup is forming at a key level.
- 3. Time : The 9am CRT setup must occur around the specified time to ensure its validity.
- 4. High Probability Scenarios: Focus on setups where the confluences, such as purge, tap into a key level, and a CISD on lower timeframes, align.
- 5. Bias Clarity: Your bias for the session should be clean and supported by higher timeframe analysis.
